

Reflection on My Digital Collage

Completing this assignment gave me the opportunity to think deeply about the key elements of my life that got me to where I am today. Every element I chose was selected because it not only represents my past experiences but it also serves as a piece to remember everything that I still love and am passionate about.

The personal photos I selected and included represent the core to who I am. I chose the image of myself in my graduation cap with my parents by my side because it represents the impact that they have had on my education. They are the ones that kept me on the correct path even when I wanted to give up on high school. High school particularly wasn't hard for me but rather so painfully boring. My teachers were not the greatest and as happy as I was to get an easy A, I didn't feel the need to go to class. Every day I would simply sit in class, on my phone, waiting for that same bell to ring. My parents as well as my girlfriend of 2+ years helped cure my boredom and kept me motivated throughout my education. The animated image of myself with my girlfriend is taken from Snapchat. We do not use Snapchat too often but I used this image as it highlights the childish energy that we have within our relationship. Herself, along with my dog Daisy, are the entertainment in my life. I have never been a very bubbly person, but when I am with those two, I feel like a whole new person.

As for the symbols, I chose a football, piano, and basketball. These were selected in the order of which I started and "mastered" these items. I attended taekwondo at the same time as flag football, although I took more interest in football. 6 years later I would acquire my black belt in taekwondo while still playing flag football, so when I finally got tired of martial arts, I still had my favorite sport left to continue. In flag football I played both wide receiver, and quarterback on occasion. I would like to say that I have a good arm. I then went on to play tackle football for my high school, once again as the slot receiver, and soft-side linebacker on defense. I played until I eventually snapped my forearm 2 ½ ways during practice in my junior year. The symbols of the piano and basketball are less important but still impactful on who I am as a person. I played the piano on a similar timeline as my taekwondo as well as the violin which I wasn't as good at in middle school. But finally, after snapping my forearm playing football, I relearned how to throw and catch and shoot a basketball. I have found a liking in basketball and that is now my primary sport as of today. I play for fun and practice almost every day before sunset.

Finally, the quotes support my values of never giving up, even when you have to relearn everything and change your path completely, which for me was in sports. My change from football to basketball was hard but ultimately what I needed due to the tragic events that happened playing football. I hope to continue playing basketball and I do touch the piano from time to time as well as continuing through college and finding a good career later on.
